Good Jobs Challenge: EDA Workforce Data Collection Instrument Terms and Definitions

The terms and definitions detailed below are for the purpose of ensuring data consistency for information submitted through the EDA Workforce Data Collection Instrument for the Good Jobs Challenge.

Codes

County-level Federal Information Processing Series (FIPS)<sup>1</sup>

FIPS are standards and guidelines for federal computer systems that are developed by the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) in accordance with the Federal Information Security Management Act (FISMA) and approved by the Secretary of Commerce. These codes enable unique identification of counties across the U.S. and enables EDA to draw from other federal datasets that have county-level information. Refer to the Frequently Asked Questions document for guidance on submitting FIPS.

North American Industry Classification System (NAICS)<sup>2</sup>

NAICS is the standard used by Federal statistical agencies in classifying business establishments for the purpose of collecting, analyzing, and publishing statistical data related to the U.S. business economy. For the purposes of this survey, we ask that you provide NAICS codes at the six-digit level. For additional information on NAICS codes and to search for codes within specific industries, please visit https://www.census.gov/naics/.

Communities

Coal communities<sup>3</sup>

Coal communities are communities and regions that can reasonably demonstrate how changes in the coal economy have resulted or are anticipated to result in job losses and layoffs in any coal-reliant commercial sector. This includes, but is not limited to:

- Coal mining
- Coal-fired power plants
- Related transportation, logistics, and/or supply chain manufacturing industries

Urban vs. Rural Classification 4,5

The Census Bureau's urban-rural classification is a delineation of geographic areas, identifying both individual urban areas and the rural areas of the nation. The Census Bureau's urban areas represent densely developed territory, and encompass residential, commercial, and other non-residential urban land uses. The Census Bureau delineates urban areas after each decennial census by applying specified criteria to decennial census and other data. "Rural" encompasses all population, housing, and territory not included within an urban area.

For the 2020 Census, an urban area will comprise a densely settled core of census blocks that meet minimum housing unit density and/or population density requirements. This includes adjacent territory containing non-residential urban land uses. To qualify as an urban area, the territory identified according to criteria must encompass at least 2,000 housing units or a population of at least 5,000.
